Government Tightens Drag Net on Tax Evaders

WASHINGTON — The federal government's machinery for prosecuting violations of the income tax law is working smoothly and relentlessly these days. It has provided the press with some big headlines in the last few months, and will provide some bigger ones before fall.

Conditions Abroad Related by Former Columbus Citizen

Dr. R. M. Wilson, Enroute
Home, Writes as Ship
Leaves Japan

TELLS LEPER WORK
Relations Between U. S. and Japan Are More Friendly

Editor's Note: The Star Monday morning received the following letter from Dr. R. M. Wilson of Juntan, Korea. The letter was written as his ship left Japan for the United States. Dr. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson arrived in Hope Monday, and will visit Dr. Wilson's parents in Columbus the next several days.

Midocan, May 9th, 1939.

Dear Friends:
It may be a bit early to send another letter but as I am on the ship, out of Japan I feel that I can say a few things about the work and situation that will reach you. While in Korea we have to be exceedingly careful what we say or write for much of the mail is censored and one can easily get on the black list.

Mrs. Wilson and I are making a short visit to my parents as they are growing feeble, father being 96 and in bed 'good' part of the time. He is giving us the trip. Our address will be Columbus, Ark., except for the first week of June when it will be Box 74, Davidson, N. C.

I feel that you good friends should know a bit of the very difficult situation our mission and work finds itself these days. When the war started in China the government took the position that to wage a successful war every one in the land should bow down to the Sun goddess, through the Emperor. We could not do this so at first our schools were all closed and some thousands of pupils thrown out of school.

Then later the rule was applied to the churches, all required to come out and bow down at the shrines. We decided we could not do this so withdrew from the Presbyteries. So now we are pretty well cut off from the churches and our work confined chiefly to three Bible schools and the medical work. We are all sitting tight, hoping that when the war is over things will become normal and we can proceed with the usual work. The bold stand against the church in Germany is being imitated in many lands and one cannot tell what the future may bring.

Just within the past few weeks since the United States government sent the ashes of the late Ambassador Saito to Japan there has been a very marked change for the better, less anti foreign feeling and much improvement along these lines. It may be that Japan is climbing on the fence to take a good look before jumping. Any way I noted a very marked friendly feeling in Japan on this trip.

Our relations with the native Christians are good but if we visit the country churches they are abused afterwards for associating with us. A law has just gone into effect in Japan requiring all foreigners to put in application for residence and to be renewed every year. So our abiding there is strictly in their hands. Already a good many are on the black list and may not be allowed to remain.

So you can see that conditions are precarious and never did we need more the earnest prayers of all our good friends for the work.
During the past year my time has been divided between the general hospital and leper work, and in both we are very busy and things encouraging.
In April 61 lepers were baptized, bringing the church membership up to 359 with 6 elders and 12 deacons. We have a fine little day for 70

Boss Pendergast of Kansas City goes to trial next month on an income tax charge. An indictment has been returned against Enoch "Nucky" Johnson of Atlantic City, influential political boss. On June 5 a Chicago grand jury will listen to evidence in the case of Joe Annenberg, wealthy politician-publisher. Also in Chicago, a grand jury will be given the evidence against William R. Skidmore, reputed gambling boss.

In each of these cases, the government is proceeding against a big shot. In each case, the political importance of the central figure has been unable to call off the dogs. More of these cases are coming; currently, for instance, treasury sleuths are quietly investigating tax cases relating to some of the bigwigs in Hollywood.

The Shushan Affair
Against this record, as a gentle reminder that things were not always thus, there is the fact that less than a month has passed since Abe Shushan, New Orleans politico and once intimate of the late Huey Long, finally closed the income tax case against himself by paying the Treasury $62,465.

The Shushan case is a good highlight for the present situation—because it is so different.

Eleven prominent New Orleans politicians were indicted on income tax charges. The Long machine and the Roosevelt administration were at odds at the time. One of the eleven, a minor figure, was tried and convicted. Shushan was tried and acquitted. A third case was called. Numerous delays and postponements intervened; before the trial was held the Justice Department had propped the cases—and the fact that peace was reported to have been made between Long's political heirs and the New Deal led administration critics to complain that there might have been some connection between the peace settlement and the not prosecution.

Now the thing to remember in all of these income tax cases is that they are not finished by the agency that starts them.

The Internal Revenue Bureau of the Treasury Department starts these cases. It is made up, pretty largely of career men, who have no particular political ties and go ahead without regard for the political implications.

Jesse Brown Wins Trip to New York

Will Visit World's Fair in June—Four Others
Win Trip

Jesse Brown of the Hope Auto company was notified Monday that he had won a New York World's Fair trip in a recent contest sponsored by the Memphis branch of the Ford Motor company.

Only five salesmen in the district comprising Arkansas, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi sold the dollar volume of used cars to qualify. Mr. Brown ranked second in this number.

Mr. Brown has been with the Hope Auto company for the past five years in the used car department, and has set a high record of sales during this time. The contest winners will go to the fair in June.

Tom Pendergast in Plea of Guilty to Evasion of Taxes

Kansas City Political Boss
Sentenced to Prison and Fined

SUSPEND SENTENCE

His Attorney Says a Prison Sentence Would Mean Death

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(AP)—Tom Pendergast, dethroned political boss, pleaded guilty Monday to evading taxes on $443,550, and was sentenced to a year and three months in prison. Federal Judge Merrill Otis sentenced the political leader to one year and three months on the first count of an indictment charging he dodged taxes in 1935-36.

On the second count, the judge sentenced Pendergast to three years and fined him $10,000. The sentence was suspended, and he was placed on probation for five years.

Pendergast changed his plea from innocent to guilty in court Monday morning.

After Maurice M. Milligan, United States district attorney, presented the government's charge, Pendergast's attorney made plea for clemency for his client, asserting that a prison sentence would mean his death.

The Internal Revenue Bureau of the Treasury Department starts these cases. It is made up, pretty largely of career men, who have no particular political ties and go ahead without regard for the political implications.

Two Negroes Hurt Crash Near Hope

Meredith Jones Sustains
Severe Injuries on Highway 67

Two negroes were injured, one gravely, when a truck struck a buggy in which the two negroes were riding on Highway 67 just east of the city limits at 5 p. m. Sunday.

Meredith Jones, about 55, remained unconscious at 2:45 p. m. Monday in Josephine hospital as the result of injuries. Physicians held little hope for his recovery.

The negro Jones has a severe skull injury and both legs are lacerated. He has been unconscious since the accident.

The second negro, Richard Williams, about 20, has a broken knee cap and cuts about the face. His condition is not serious.

Officers, investigating the case, said Jones and Williams were traveling east and had pulled into the driveway of the P. J. Drake residence when a truck, headed west toward Hope, hit the buggy.

Officers said the truck was driven by Lex King. The accident was termed unavoidable by officers.

New Department of School System Liked by Students

Class of 75 Is Maximum Allowed by State Board of Vocational Education—Department Under Supervision of R. E. Jackson

The Vocational Agriculture Department of the Hope High School was established in the school year 1937-38. This, the newest department in the Hope school system, is proving very popular with the students. The enrollment the first year was 66, this year it is 75, which is the maximum allowed by the State Board of Vocational Education. The students are from the 10th, 11th and 12th grades. The department is conducted by R. E. Jackson.

The department was moved into the new vocational building at mid-term this year. In the new quarters, which is one of the best buildings in the state, it is possible to give more time to the development of skill in doing things. One of the fundamental principles of vocational education, is learning by doing as well as by study. This is best illustrated by the manual training work which is done in this department.

They learn to make use of their arithmetic in measuring materials, and laying out their work. They make use of their geometry in fitting things together at the different angles called for in plans by which they build. In this way, they find their own mistakes, because they actually cut out and put together the things they lay out. When they make a mistake in the size of the angles used, they find it out when they attempt to put their work together. They find that it is very important to be accurate in their computations and exact in their measurements.

Complete Set of Tools

Yankee Clipper in Successful Flight

First Regular Commercial Flight Across the Atlantic

MARSEILLE, France.—(AP)—The Yankee Clipper alighted here Monday at 3:40 p. m., completing the first regularly scheduled commercial flight across the Atlantic.

The history-making flight started from New York at 12:08 p. m. E. S. T. Saturday.

To veteran Commander Arthur E. La Porte, skipper of the craft, it was "just routine and not very romantic."

He was second officer on the Clipper when it made its first crossing on an exploratory flight last March.

Cone Praises Flight

J. Carroll Cone, Atlantic division manager of Pan-American Airways, operator of the plane, declared it was "the finest flight of my 22 years of flying."

"I was so interested I slept only three hours," said Mr. Cone, who formerly served as United States civil aviation director.

Clipper Delayed

The Clipper, carrying a crew of 14, three observers and 1,603 pounds of mail, was delayed at Horta because of the inability of the postoffice there to stamp quickly for collectors 23,000 letters it brought from the United States.

Captain La Porte expected to spend about two and one-half hours in Horta but the stop was extended to six hours and 19 minutes.

Second Flight Planned

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The Yankee Clipper's sister flying boat, Atlantic Clipper, will take off from New York next Saturday on the second mail flight of the new transatlantic air service. Pan-

Tension Increases at Danzig as Pole Kills a German

BERLIN, Germany.—(AP)—Germany and Italy Monday signed a terse military pact of seven articles agreeing to pool their military and economic resources in the event of war in which either party might be involved.

They further agreed even in advance of war to deepen their mutual military and economic relations so that both could strike effectively and quickly in case of need.

The pact, decided upon at Milan May 6 and 7, was signed for Germany by Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and Italian Foreign Minister Count Ciano in the new chancellery and in Adolf Hitler's presence.

In a radio address, Hitler's foreign minister declared it is "our determined answer" to the "British-French encirclement plans."

Secret Clauses

ROME, Italy.—(AP)—Virginio Gayda, authoritative fascist writer, reported Monday the existence of secret clauses in the German-Italian military pact signed in Berlin.

Writing from Berlin, Gayda declared in his newspaper that the pact, which to which are added other conventions, naturally reserved which will be finally drafted by specific commissions, and which are composed of two parts.

He did not disclose the nature of the reserved conventions.

At the same time, it was learned that Italy accompanied the signing of the pact by a reduction of the number of men she has under arms.

Crisis Develops

FREE CITY OF DANZIG.—(AP)—A Pole shot and killed a German citizen of Danzig Sunday, marking the first loss of life in the current tension between Germany and Poland over the Free City and Pomorze (the Polish Corridor).

The Danzig Senate immediately demanded damages and a public apology from the Polish government for the incident which it said "is likely to influence gravely Danzig-Polish relations."

As a sequel an angry mob surrounded the building in Pieckel where Polish inspectors live. The inspectors called Danzig for help. They reported the mob was yelling that "the killing must be paid for in blood." Pieckel is on the Vistula river in the tip of the triangle where Free City, Polish and East Prussian territory meet.

The slaying of the Danzinger, a butcher named Gustav Greubner, occurred in the village of Kallhof, on the East Prussian frontier across the River Nogat from Marienberg.

The man charged with firing the two death shots was the driver of an automobile carrying three Polish officials.

A statement issued in Warsaw said the driver was the chauffeur of Tadeusz Perkowski, Polish undersecretary of Danzig, and asserted he fired in self defense after being attacked by a crowd. This version said a mob of "uniformed members of Nazi units" attacked and demolished the Polish customs post in the village and the slaying occurred when Perkowski went to investigate.

The German version differed radically from the Polish and Arthur Grieseler, president of the Senate, sent a formal note of protest to Marion Chodocki, the Polish commissioner. It requested three things:

1. That damages be paid to Greubner's family.
2. That Poland promptly and formally express her regrets.
3. That the man who fired the shots be handed over to the Free City police as proof that the three Polish officials who were with the chauffeur were not connected with the act.

"Could They Make Their Voices Heard..."

Nobody knows how many men lie buried near the spot at Verdun where the Duke of Windsor made his appeal for peace. It is certainly not less than 600,000. It may be nearly a million.

These are the men to whom Windsor referred when he said "I am deeply conscious of this great company of the dead, and I am convinced that could they make their voices heard they would be with me."

Their voices are heard no longer. Some became silent in February of 1918, when the German attack began. Each day, as the attack swelled to its crescendo, more and more men became silent, frequently as many as 10,000 between sun and sun.

The supreme German assault did not come until July, when the gray-green waves swept down from the Douaumont ridge, across the ruins of what had been the village of Fleury, to pile up in horrid windrows against the inner girdle of forts. The mur swallowed up the living and the dead—duree de cadavres, or corpse soup, the grim French called it.

In October it was done all over again, the French re-taking the captured fort of Douaumont. Longer and longer rows of men became silent.

The great French ossuary at Verdun now commemorates 4,000,000 French and Allied dead. The German loss must have been almost as great.

And, as we generally believe, they are silent, they do not speak any longer. Great stretches of the hills about Verdun lie bare and naked even today, and not even weeds will grow amid the 20-year-old scars of one of the most monumental battles of history.

We say they do not speak any longer, these nameless dead whose strong young bodies were alive one day and food for quicklime the next. And yet—

Windsor was well-advised in his choice of words, as always. He said "could they make their voices heard..."

They do speak these dead. They speak with eloquence beyond words and beyond speech.

It is we who will not hear. Coarsened by the years of brutalization that attended the World War, our ears are not attuned to the message from the ossuary at Verdun.

Behind the peace appeal of the exiled British prince, once himself as circumstances permitted, a soldier, there is a vast unearthly murmuring, a soundless sound of men calling from another time and place.

It is not that these dead do not speak. We will not listen. That is the world's tragedy.

Doctors Report How Vitamin Deficiency Affects Digest and Nerves

This is the second of three articles in which Dr. Fisher discusses advances reported at the American Medical Association convention.

Vitamins held the stage at the recent meeting of the American Medical Association.

Some doctors describe all sorts of vague digestive disorders due to vitamin deficiencies, some of which may actually produce changes in the walls of the intestines.

Prolonged lack of certain vitamins, alcoholic excess and reducing diets without the necessary vitamins are leaders among the causes of digestive disturbances.

The nervous system may also be subjected to changes because of the lack of vitamins. In this case vitamin B1 is the important element. In foreign countries where people eat polished rice and lose this vitamin a serious condition called beriberi develops.

In this country people seldom go on to that stage but do have minor symptoms affecting the nervous system which are definitely related to a deficiency of vitamin B1. In fact, there are certain inflammatory conditions

STAMP NEWS

It is not likely that a new trans-Atlantic 30-cent airmail stamp will be issued at this time. At least the U. S. Post Office Department has not indicated such a value. It is recalled instead that already there is a 10-cent, a 15-cent and to the 50-cent Pacific denomination. Moreover, the regular 30-cent postage stamp could be used on mail to Europe, provided the letter was designated for airmail.

Once trans-Atlantic service is regularly launched, it is likely, however, that a 30-cent value will be printed.

The forthcoming baseball commemorative will be the first U. S. issue devoted to this national sport, but baseball was honored on a set of 1934 stamps of the Philippine Islands. These were issued in connection with the Tenth Far Eastern Championship games and one of them featured home plate with the batter and catcher ready for the pitch. The others showed tennis and basketball players. Philippine stamps are not valid for postage out of the islands.

in the brain which have now been to some extent related to such deficiency.

Vitamin K which has now been shown to be associated especially with hemorrhage, when there is jaundice was considered by investigators from the University of Iowa and from the University of Minnesota.

A new test was described for determining whether the person who was jaundiced needs vitamin K. If it is found that he does need this substance, it can be provided in a concentrated form as it is derived from alfalfa, kale, spinach, carrot tops, tomatoes and oat sprouts.

It has been found that jaundiced patients who have bleeding after operations on the gall bladder invariably have an insufficient amount of substances in their blood necessary to bring about coagulation.

The giving of vitamin K will prevent this condition. Most of the patients in a large surgical clinic are now given vitamin K in bile salts before operations on the gall bladder and a good many secondary reactions are prevented.

Detroit doctors reported that color blind motorists can drive safely, using such clues as the position of the lights and the movement of other cars. They said that red-green blindness should not prevent a person from driving a motor car.

Large adenoids in children were again incriminated as one of the chief causes of infections of the ear. Vitamins were urged for children who have chronic infections of the sinuses. Most important on such children is a vacation in some climate where the weather is warm and dry and where there are moderate changes in temperature and plenty of sunlight.

CLUB NOTES

Belton

The Belton home demonstration club met at the home of Mrs. S. F. Leslie on May 10. With ten members answering the roll call. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. J. L. Eley the president and the devotional lesson read by Mrs. Leslie which was the 23rd Psalm followed by prayer by Mrs. Eley. After which an interesting talk on taxation was given. Then we had a demonstration on the type of hats suited to individuals should wear.

The recreation hour was enjoyed very much by all.

The hostess served a delicious refreshment of cake, strawberries and hot chocolate.

The club will entertain the County Council in June at the Baptist church.

Life's Sours

They say the world is round, and yet I often think it square. So many little hurts we get. From corners here and there. But one great truth in life I've found. While journeying to the West. The only folks who really wound. Are those we love the best. The man you thoroughly despise. Can rouse your wrath, 'tis true; Annoyance in your heart will rise. At things more strangers do; But those are only passing ills. The healing wound which aches and kills. Is dealt by hands we love. —Selected.

Bruce Catton Says

Just incidentally, it might be noted that whereas the Louisiana cases were commonly supposed to be a method of reprisal against Long by the Roosevelt administration, the case against Shushan, was started in 1932—before Roosevelt even took office.

Co-operation Needed to Build Case

Anyhow, the procedure is that the Internal Revenue agents do the sleuthing and make the case, and then turn the evidence over to the Department of Justice to do the prosecuting. After that, the case is out of the Internal Revenue Bureau's hands. If Justice Department experts decide that a case is not strong enough for a conviction, they can not pros it. If they do, there isn't anything the Treasury people can do about it.

Consequently, an income tax prosecution against a powerful politician requires two things—first, skillful inquiry by the Treasury people, and second, energetic prosecution by the attorney general's men. The attorney general doesn't begin the prosecutions, but he carries them through once they are begun.

All of which leads up to the remark that, since about the first of the year the Justice Department has had a new boss—Attorney General Frank Murphy.

Mr. Murphy is rapidly winning a reputation here as a clean-up artist, a law enforcement official who strikes without fear or favor. A common remark is that the administration is designed to build him up in this character as an offset to the Republican's fearless and fearless prosecutor, Thomas E. Dewey. But however that may be, the fact remains that the Treasury people feel that they are working in a different atmosphere. Rightly or wrongly, they feel that if they hand over a good case it will be prosecuted to the hilt.

To get back to Shushan; his acquittal in federal court did not relieve him of the civil case for the collection of unpaid income taxes which the Treasury Department pressed against him. It was out of that case that his recent settlement payment grew. Of the $2,465 he paid, $1,287 represented a penalty for fraudulent evasion of taxes.

New Department

regardless of what work he does. It is not the purpose of this department to train expert craftsmen, but to develop simple skills that will be useful to the average man.

The shop is also equipped with power tools to teach the boys to make use of power in doing some of the more difficult tasks commonly done by hand. These machines add much to the efficiency of the work shop and also to the student interest. The speed and accuracy of the power tool enable the boys to turn out more and better work. This is in keeping with modern trends in other fields of work, for the old methods are rapidly being replaced with new and better ways of doing things. The school is indebted to the city government for this fine power equipment, which has meant so much to the boys in their work.

Other Phase of Work

Another phase of the vocational work is the study of agriculture and the project work done by the boys. In this, boys are encouraged to raise good animals and crops. They are encouraged to "own" something and to assume the responsibility that goes with ownership. There is nothing more important in the education of a boy than the proper development of the desire for ownership. Ownership develops an independence in the individual that is not developed by other process. The value of this is emphasized by the mass dependence which we are experiencing at the present time. The boy who owns something, who knows how to do something and knows something, will make a good citizen in any vocation and in any community.

The third phase of our work is the F. F. A. organization. This club is patterned after adult civic clubs. Through this national organization, the boys are taught to cooperate and work for the common good. They are given the opportunity to develop leadership and civic pride. They are encouraged to do things by their own initiative. Their experience in this work should make them better citizens, and more efficient men.

Boys who find they like this type of work and that they have unusual ability in it, may continue it by entering Trade school, just as they enter college for further development in other high school courses.

The support and co-operation of the school board, the faculty, the student body and the community have been all that could be desired. The work that has been done during the short time that this department has been here, indicates that it will continue to make rapid progress, and render valuable service to the community in the years to come. It is expected to make this one of the outstanding departments in the state.

leper children taught by 10 leper teachers. A three weeks Bible class was taught by Revs. Unger, Newland and Knox and these 70 who studied will take these messages to the entire colony in their daily Bible classes through the year.

For twenty years we have been training the inmates to do their own medical work but so often those trained would leave to start up a practice in the country. Now I marry off my best trained medical workers and they stay with us. This year they report the following done by their thirty workers: 40,500 surgical dressings, 10,872 prescriptions written and filled, 36,000.

A very remarkable thing is the lepers ability to memorize the scriptures and this the hobby and pastime of many of the blind and deformed.

Two Brothers Killed in Plane Crash at Austin

AUSTIN, Tex.—(AP)—Two Austin brothers were killed Sunday in the crash of a plane in which they were riding on an aerial show here. cases. One blind man has memorized the following: All of Mathew, James, first, second and third John; Collo- loossians. Jude, Revelations and Psalms first through the 23. There are eleven others who have done similar work. One with eyes reads the passage to the blind and he memorizes it in just a few readings. Our grand old Elder Kim Tai Ok, who has been my adviser and right hand man in the colony since 1909 passed on to his reward the day after Christmas. It took him about six months to die, as is often the case with a leper.

We have ten most attractive little children and I am most anxious to secure them a cottage, a home for the untrained where such can be placed apart from the infected ones.

Just recently a wealthy man, a gold miner, discovered that his three sons, his joy and hope, all have the disease. They were sent to us and he provided for their care and he then disappeared. This to him was the greatest calamity. They are splendid boys and have entered into the spirit of the colony well, though at first were much dispondent. I think all three will recover.

The other day Dr. Preston and I went into the ward and asked the women to get ready for the operation. She was screaming and said that the demon was inside, refusing to allow her to be operated. By the next day she had gotten rid of the demon and was operated. Often they will try to remove a demon by thrusting a mop down their stomach and these break off and we have the job of removing the mop.

We have had a heavy run of pneumonia this year and splendid results from the use of sulphamolin, a wonderful drug.

We are having great difficulties securing drugs and supplies these days as only a few things allowed to come into the country due to war. I hope to take back with me a large supply of gauze, bandages and such things. My son Dr. Jas. S. Wilson and wife will plan to return with us and he also will need such things in his plant. Any one wishing to send such care N Y K Line San Francisco before July 10th and we can bring out at small cost.

Needs are gauze, bandages, surgical instruments, I hope to take back 100 bolts domestic so each leper can have a new suit clothes from real cotton cloth. Our cloth now is half fiber and melts readily.

Imports are prevented to prevent flow of gold out of the country, a war measure. Now don't forget to pray for the work as we are in precarious times.

With greetings to one and all, Very sincerely, R. M. Wilson.

Band Concert Here On Tuesday Night

Appreciation Program to Be Given at Hope City Hall

Tuesday night at 7:30 at the city hall the Hope High School band, directed by G. Thomas Cannon, will present an "Appreciation" concert, honoring those city officials, organizations, and onspoke who have so generously supported the band in the past year.

The Mayor, the City Council, the Young Business Men's Association, and the Chamber of Commerce have received special invitations to be present. A gala concert was selected by the band members themselves as the best means of showing their appreciation. This concert will mark the final appearance of eleven members of this year's graduating class.

They are Mary Evelyn Whitworth, Weldon Taylor, Harold Sandlin, J. T. Luck, Bobby Reynerson, Marian Smith, Sara Ann Holland, Joe Olmstead, Evelyn Dossel, Jennie Sue Martindale and Frances Yocom.

Announcement of the program will appear in the Star Tuesday.

Fayetteville Boys Slugged by 3 Men

Are Taken to Edge of City Where They Are Slugged and Robbed

ROGERS, Ark.—(AP)—Two Fayetteville youths reported to police early Sunday that three men, who picked them up while hitchhiking, slugged and robbed them of their clothes and money.

Jack Wilkerson and Bill Trolinger, who Police Chief Pat Reddick described as being "around 16 or 18," said that the trio threw out cheap blankets to them after forcing them to disrobe. Less than $1 was taken from the youths.

Reddick said the two gave this account of the robbery. The young men came here late Saturday night to "date" two girls attending a picture show. They caught a ride to Springdale and were brought on here by the three strange men. When Wilkerson entered the theater to look for the girls, the three drove Trolinger to the city's outskirts, struck him over the head and forced him to turn over his money and clothes. The men in the car returned and picked up Wilkerson, knocked him unconscious and robbed him in a similar manner.

George Palmer Putnam and Divorcee Married

BOULDER CITY, Nev.—(AP)—George Palmer Putnam, 52-year-old Hollywood publisher, and Mrs. Jean-Marie Consigny James, Beverly Hills divorcee, were married here Sunday.

The brief, simple ceremony was performed in a hotel patio by the Rev. H. H. Eymann, with Mr. and Mrs. Grover E. Ruckstell of Boulder City, old friends of Putnam, and their daughter, Patricia, as witnesses.

The former husband of Amelia Earhart and his prospective bride, who was divorced last week, from William R. James, had planned to be married at Las Vegas, Nev., but flew here from Los Angeles instead.

No. 10—The Steeplechase

Early American steeplechasing was inferior. Untrained horses were inexpertly ridden. Equine fatalities and injuries increased. Humanitarian considerations hastened the decline which had already begun.

It remained for hunt clubs to save the sport. Cross-country racing developed talent.

Hunt-race meetings played a prominent part in increasing prestige of racing both over fences and on the flat. This country's courses compare favorably with the best in England.—NEXT: Kentucky Derby.

Dean in Brilliant Victory Over Bees

Holds Boston to Three Hits—Retires 13 Batters in Succession

CHICAGO.—(P)—Dizzy Dean, making his first league start of the season, thrilled 21,684 spectators Sunday with a three-hit performance that gave the Chicago Cubs a 4 to 0 victory over the Boston Bees.

Most of the spectators had stood in the ticket line in the rain which held up start of the game for more than a half hour.

There was not question about Dean's readiness to take his place among the Cubs' starting pitchers. His performance was reminiscent of so many he turned in during his heyday with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Bees made one scratch hit in the first inning and two more blows in the seventh. A single Bee reached third base and only one got as far as second. Only four reached first, one of them as a result of an error by Steve Mesmer in the sixth inning.

Dean didn't walk a batter from the first through the fifth he retired 13 Bees in succession.

When the game was over Diz declared his arm was as strong at the finish as it was at the start.

Knoxville Smokies Claim Kola Sharpe

Veteran Little Rock Hurler Joins Knoxville Sunday

LITTLE ROCK.—Kola Sharpe, Little Rock's veteran right-hand pitcher, has been claimed on waivers by the Knoxville club, it was announced by Manager George Toporek Sunday night. Sharpe shifted from the Little Rock to the Knoxville dugout following the first game of a double-header between the clubs Sunday afternoon.

Oldest Traveler from a point of service, Sharpe joined the Little Rock club in the middle of the 1932 season. He was signed as free agent along with Earl Browne by Ray Winder, Traveler's business representative. Sharpe belonged to Louisville and pitched for Asheville but was cast aside when the Colonels surrendered their franchise in the Piedmont League city.

The popular Sharpe has averaged about 12 wins a year in his almost pitchers he ever caught.

No Need for Lazzari's Coscarart Fit in so well at second base for Brooklyn that Leo Durocher decided he wouldn't have to be spelled by Tony Lazzari.

Red Evans balked in one winning run and permitted Pepper Martin to steal home with another, yet he held in high esteem in Flushing.

Naturally, the Dodgers have one of the year's standard pitchers in Whitlow Wyatt, but we're not discussing remarkable comebacks.

Mike Tresh and Ken Silvestri both up for the first time, have done all of the White Sox catching.

Truett (Pip) Sewell blanked the Giants, among other things, for the Pirates, and Fern Bell has seen service in the outfield.

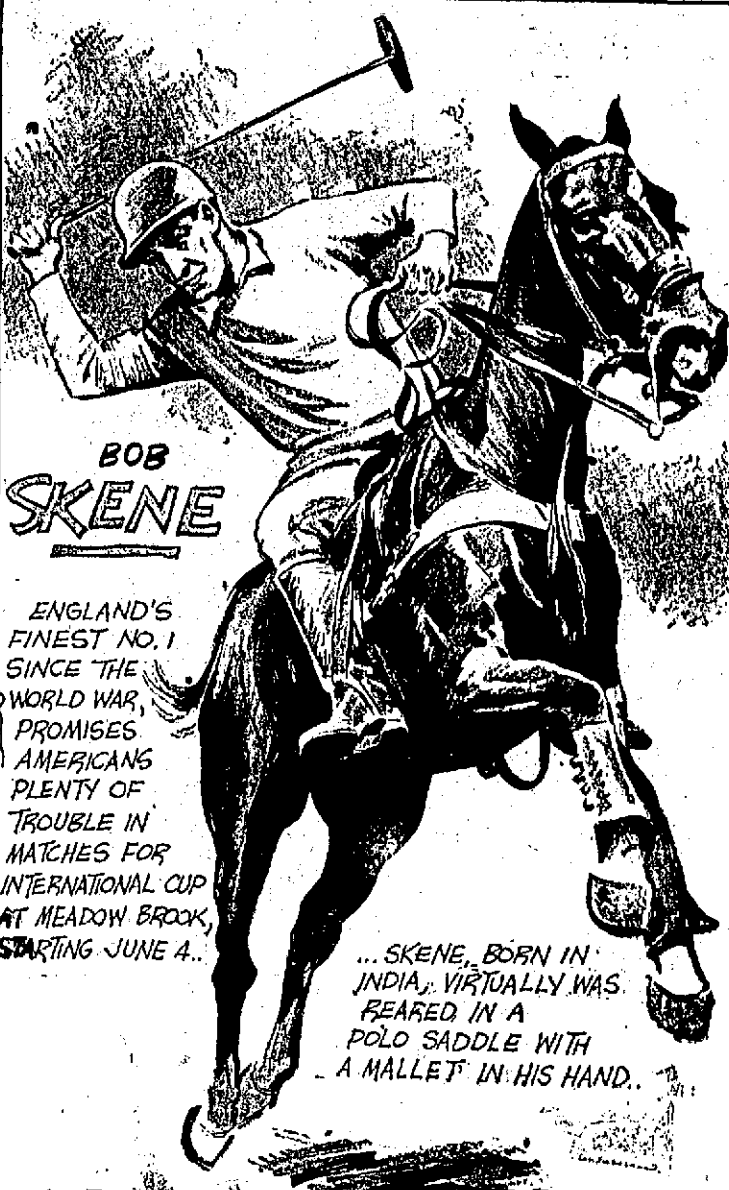

The Cardinals and Reds drew young pitchers of apparent verve. Mort Cooper, Bob Bowman and Tom Sunkel will be heard from in St. Louis before the last shot is fired. Cincinnati strings along with Junior Thompson and Peter Naktienis.

The Senators still have Flycatchers Roberto Estalella and Johnny Wela, Haynes, Walter Masterson and Alex Joe Haynes, Walter Masterson and Alex Carrasquel, the latter a Venezuelan.

Manuel Salvo stands six feet four weighs 210 pounds and looked just that big to Bill Terry in a very sad Giant pitching situation.

Indeed, things would be vastly more distressing for several major league clubs were it not for first year men.

Yanks Beat Indians for 11th Straight

Dickey and Crosetti Get Homers in 12 to 6 Victory

NEW YORK.—(P)—The slugging for which the New York Yankees are famous stood them in good stead Sunday as they beat the Cleveland Indians, 12 to 6, for their 11th consecutive American League victory.

The Tribe took the lead with three runs in the first inning and drove Lefty Gomez from the mound in the seventh with another three-run flurry which tied the score. But the champions made six runs in their last two turns at bat.

Every one of the Yanks except Relief Pitcher Bump Hadley, who got credit for the game, hit and Bill Dickey and Frank Crosetti each had homers.

Al Milnar, the southpaw who beat the Yankees in 11 innings two weeks ago at Cleveland, started for the Indians and was slammed for six runs in the first four innings, including Dickey's circuit blow with one on in the fourth.

He gave way to John Humphries, who stopped the Bronx bombers for the only two innings they were held scoreless, but a pair of passes, a sacrifice and a single put New York ahead again in the last of the seventh and he was charged with the loss.

Tow Drake and Bill Zuber divided the eighth inning chore in which the Yankees fattened their total with four runs on Crosetti's homer, doubles by Tom Henrich and Dickey, a walk, a single and a sacrifice.

Whooper-Upper in Danzig Has Stage Set for Hitler

Hitler's Boss of Danzig Is Known as a Hot-Headed Leader—Spreads Nazi Influence Throughout Free City

Perhaps the hottest spot in Europe today is the Free City of Danzig—and one of the most heated leaders in Europe is the Nazi "gauleiter," or boss, of that area, 37-year-old Albert Forster.

He is one big reason why harried European diplomats are having a fine case of jitters for fear some un-planned incident in Danzig may provoke war.

The petulant Herr Forster has even given his own bosses in Berlin some bad moments when they've had to "explain" indiscreet statements made by him.

Back in 1933, Hitler's organ, Voelkischer Beobachter, called Forster a "fast stepper," but asserted he was "eminently suited" to inculcate Nazism in Danzig.

He's Done Some Work
And no one can deny he has done that job thoroughly. When Herr Hitler sent him there as his liaison man in 1930 the Nazis in Germanic Danzig were a squabbling minority. Now no one doubts they control all but a few per cent of the residents.

Only Poland's interest in the Danzig harbor, which it helps supervise, kept Danzig from falling into Hitler's lap already.

If Poland had not howled so convincingly last month, there is little doubt that Forster would have presented Danzig to Hitler as a birthday present. Instead, Forster made Der Fuehrer an "honorary citizen"—which Danzigers, who know that Forster himself is only an honorary citizen.

He was born 450 miles away in southern Germany, near Nurnberg. A son of a civil servant the husky, two-fisted lad entered Hitler's Youth movement while still in school and became a protégé of that rabid Jew-hater, Julius Streicher.

Albert entered business as bank clerk, but couldn't seem to hold a job. He blamed it on vindictive Jewish employers—and began devoting even more time to storm-trooping. Now he's married to the attractive daughter of a wealthy Danzig contractor and has a part-time job as commissioner of clerks in the Reich's Labor Front.

Wrestled It From League
When Forster went to this tiny region on the Baltic, with its 400,000 population, it was under the firm control of the League of Nations. He had orders from Hitler to undermine the League's authority. He did this mainly by having Nazis snub, insult and ridicule the League's commissioner.

Then he began applying relentless pressure to squeeze out opposition parties.

He received a set-back in 1935 when Nazis failed to get a majority in the parliament—but by 1937 he was in complete control. During that year he told off the League of Nations with: "We refuse to be dictated to by the League, Danzig is German and Hitler alone counts here."

And since then Hitler alone has counted.

Stiedle Wins State Golf Championship

Defeats Jack Tennin' of Little Rock, 8 to 7, for Title

HOT SPRINGS, Ark.—(P)—Long hitting Frank Stiedle of Hot Springs regained his Arkansas amateur golf championship here Sunday with an 8 and 7 victory over Defending Champion Jack Tennin' of Little Rock at Hot Springs Country Club.

Stiedle, champion in 1936 and 1937 lost the title to Tennin last year at Little Rock. Stiedle was two under par for the day, holding a three under margin at the end of the morning round with a one under par 71 and shooting one under par for the 11 holes Sunday afternoon.

It was the worst defeat of Tennin's eight years in tournament golf, he said after the match, expressing regret that "I couldn't make it more interesting."

Stiedle, for outdriving Tennin through the day, won the third and fifth holes of the morning round for a quick advantage and was never headed.

SERIAL STORY DATE WITH DANGER

BY HELEN WORDEN
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, many interviewers the French family and police, prominent about Janice French and her secret apartment.

CHAPTER XI

TUCKY THOMPSON had come home late. A cocktail party at Mrs. Van Zant's detained her. But this was not unusual. She always ran hours behind schedule. Tonight she was only 30 minutes off. "Corinne!" her high-pitched voice echoed through the apartment. "Corinne!"

"Oui, Madame, oui. I be there in a moment," Tuckie's maid answered sulkily from the kitchen. "I pressing at dress again for you to wear zis night!"

But even Corinne's ill-temper couldn't disturb Tuckie's good humor. The afternoon had gone well. Humming a little tune, she rustled into her bedroom.

Her present home was a remodeled walk-up in the East Fifties. She had decorated it herself. The walls of the tiny drawing room were sea-shell pink and the furniture chalk white. There were white bear rugs on the black painted wood floor and white Venetian blinds at the windows. Her bedroom was done in the same manner. In its tenebrous days the series of cubicles had been called a railroad apartment, but since the architectural face-lifting had taken place they were dignified by the title of the English Chambers. There was a difference of $50 dollars a month in the rent.

Tuckie was proud of telling acquaintances, however, that her last apartment, the one where she'd lived with her fourth husband, had cost $12,000 a year. She also explained that she'd taken this present modest home because she didn't think it was right to live in such luxury when so many people were suffering, but to closer friends she confessed that she'd moved into this "dumpy" until she got more alimony out of Pete Thompson. The job as hostess at the Dove, she told them, was also helping her bridge the gap.

SHE must dress with extra care tonight. So many people she wanted to impress would be at the Dove.

The Van Zants' cocktail party had been a great success. The head of a new cosmetics company had been there and she had nearly agreed to promote his business—so nearly as she could—until she was sure what to ask him for her efforts. Meanwhile he'd promised to come to the Dove that night.

"A big spender," she'd tell Duke Martin. "A big spender."

But he wouldn't be grateful. He never was.

Maybe she'd give up being a hostess in his night club and throw her lot in with beauty after all. With a skin like hers, why shouldn't she? The time was ripe. If she was ever to endorse a cosmetics company, she must come to a decision. She'd soon be too old. Anxiously she glanced in her mirror. No, not a late yet.

From beauty, her mind jumped to the Italian Count. Though she was wholly unacquainted with Italian, it gratified her to have him murmur compliments in that language. At least she hoped they were compliments. Heavens! Suppose he had proposed and she'd accepted! Those Italians never had any money. Little shivers ran up and down her back. But they could make love! The Van Zants were so democratic. They always invited everybody. The new head of the slum rehabilitation work in Washington had been there, and a young Swedish prince who was painting those marvelous night pictures. Then there had been quite a circle of dramatic stars; Tilly Porter who was playing in the new Jones' review; Sir Ronald Summerfield who'd been brought over from London by the very erudite Winthrop; and Mary Field who was such a hit in "Bright Danger."

And of course there was Clem Shirley! Duke had reminded Tucky again and again that he wanted her to bring more girls to his club.

"I like them young. I like them beautiful," he had said. "But best of all, I like them with money. They're a talking point. They're the right sort of an advertisement for the Dove."

IT was at the Van Zants that Tuckie had run into Clem, the glamor girl of the deb season.

"So much fresher than Janice French," she mused. When she saw her she cleverly button-holed Jack Burden.

"I want you to bring Miss Shirley to the Dove with you tonight and sit at my table."

Clem had been eager. "I've heard so much about that Duke Martin. I've always wanted to meet a real gangster."

"All the more reason for my going," Jack Burden had said. That boy was so good-looking, Tuckie's brain rattled on as she slipped into her evening gown. If she were younger she'd make a play for him herself. He had such prospects!

The Dove was going full blast as Tuckie tripped past the door. She was feeling high; more like the days of '29.

"You're late," said the Duke. "I've been to a cocktail party, looking up customers."

"Where are they?"

"Sh-h, here come two now."

With narrowed eyes, Martin watched the couple. The girl was fresh, vivacious and well-dressed. The grace of her prettily curved body showed through the sheer folds of a clinging scarlet chiffon. Her fluffy brown hair was piled in soft curls on top of her small head and there was frank curiosity in her blue eyes as she looked straight at the Duke.

"There's the man I want to meet," he heard her tell Tuckie.

THE boy, more reserved, was tall and muscular and looked as if he stroked the Harvard crew. Blond hair was slicked back from a bronzed forehead. A rebellious expression about his determined mouth showed he didn't like night clubs. There was contempt in his gray eyes.

Tuckie, chattering constantly, led the pair over to the Duke.

"Miss Shirley, I want you to meet Mr. Martin. Be careful. He's dangerous."

The Duke held out a hand. "Thanks for the ad, Tuckie. Young and beautiful girls are always welcome at the Dove, and they never need be afraid of me."

Tuckie frowned and stepped on his toe, as she waved a hand toward the boy. "Don't be so raw."

Then in her usual flutery tones, "Jack, this is Mr. Martin, owner of the Dove. You'll find him different."

"I'm sure of that," said Jack easily. "Glad to meet you, Martin. Your place has become quite a town institution. I see it was mentioned in the Gazette tonight."

"That so?" drawled Martin. "I haven't read any late papers."

"Oh, the Dove is famous," babbled Tuckie. "And so is the Duke."

"Just how was the Dove mentioned?" inquired Martin.

"Mary Franklin said that Janice French was last seen here; Thursday, I believe. She committed suicide, didn't she?"

"What?" Tuckie's face whitened. A nudge from Martin discouraged questions. "I'm so busy, I never have a chance to read the papers. Poor Janice! Where's the funeral?"

I must go. Everybody will be there. She had so many friends."

The door to the bar opened. "Oh, here is that fascinating Italian count I met at the Van Zants, Mr. Martin. I'm going to leave these nice children in your hands."

HIGHLIGHTS FROM LATEST BOOKS

TELLS HOW CZECH NATION DIED

The circumstantial story of the death of a nation, by one who stood there and saw it die, is told in "We Shall Live Again," (Doubleday, Doran; $3) by Maurice Hindak. Hindak's measure of the Czechoslovakian tragedy.

What a nightmare! Here was a people in servitude for 300 years; then history beckoned to them and with their courage and their blood they won back their independence. They built up their industries, their agriculture, their education, their democracy, above all a fresh method of reconciling races and nationalities that had always hated and warred with one another.

Despite wrongs and blunders which they had never concealed, they had achieved under a system of freedom a pleasurable standard of living such as few people in Europe enjoyed.

Then Power Politics loosened upon these people one attack after another. Then came Runciman, Berchtesgaden, Godesberg; with their best friends pushing them deeper and deeper into a policy of self-annihilation. Then came Munich. Then the Fifth Zone, the Sixth Zone, Chodsko, the Vienna settlement, the agreement with Hungary and Poland, the smashup of transportation, of industry, of agriculture, of education, of democracy, of the very spirit of the people. Never in all history had a nation, so enlightened, so prosperous, so secure, so powerful, on its own soil been compelled by its own best friends to break itself to pieces, "to tear its own heart, yea, with its own hands," as a Czech editor had once cried out, "and spit on it."

Is it any wonder that so many of them have become dismayed and brutalized and deep in their hearts hate not only the Germans, but the French, the English, the Jews, democracy, humanitarianism, the "professors," and all that in the pre-Munich days the Republic had espoused and emulated?

"My father wanted me to be a democrat and a gentleman," said one young man, "But... I want to make of myself a Fascist and a barbarian."

It was Munich and all that followed which had brutalized, though perhaps only temporarily, not only the tongue but the mind and the heart of this young Czech and of many of his countrymen.

Capital Flowers Into Fluster Over Royal Garden Party

By GERRY DICK
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Not since they burned the White House in 1814 have the British caused such a stir in the nation's capital as they are causing in connection with the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth.

To be strictly accurate, it isn't so much the British that are causing the stir as it is the rather large group of excited Washingtonians who are getting all puffed up about the affair. But the point is that the stir is taking place.

Most of it centers around the big garden party which is to be thrown for the Majesties at the British embassy. This thing is being handled with enough formality to fit a coronation, and the acute grief nourished in the bosoms of people who thought they ought to get invitations, but didn't is a pitiful and saddening thing to behold.

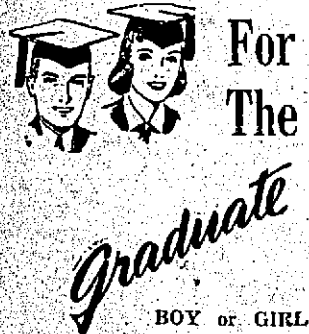

Slit! Shirt Affair
That this would be a formal affair and no fooling because evident back

Because they didn't receive one of these fancy invitations to the garden party for the king and queen of England, some Washingtonians are unhappy. NEA's Gerry Dick got hers.

In mid-March, when four or five carefully selected newspaperwomen were invited to the British embassy and there given an advance fill-in on what the program would probably be like.

After being told all of this, the newspaper women were informed that, no and given all the dope a second time. This dope included complete details about the way a royal garden party is run.

There'll be some 1400 guests. Top-notch officialdom will be there, of course; Chief Justice and Mrs. Hughes, Admiral and Mrs. Stark and General and Mrs. Craig (representing Navy and Army), Speaker and Mrs. Barkhead, Secretary of the State and Mrs. Hull, Vice President and Mrs. Garner, chiefs of foreign missions, and so on.

In addition, some 400 "outstanding Americans" from other parts of the country will be present; they're people in whom their majesties have shown some interest, or else they happen to be folks whom Ambassador and Mrs. Lindsay think their majesties would enjoy meeting.

Latecomers Out of Luck
Anyhow, all the guests are told what time to show up, the idea being to get them dined around the grounds before the king and queen put in an appearance. Once their majesties appear, the gates of the embassy will be shut and latecomers will be turned away.

Arriving at the embassy from the White House, the king and queen will go first to a proscenium overlooking the garden, while a band plays "God Save the King." Then they come downstairs and stroll about the garden briefly.

Here and there someone will be pulled out of the crowd to come over and be introduced. There'll be no clustering around; the guests are instructed to form a wide lane for their majesties to pass through. Later, when they have returned to the balcony to have tea, their majesties will receive certain guests at the tea table, such guests being summoned by members of the embassy staff.

If a rain comes up, the guests will just have to take it, unless they choose to spend their time huddled under a refreshment tent.

Curtsey Courtesy not Necessary
Somehow the idea of this formality got all over town, and impressed various folk with the idea that the divinity which doth hedge a king hedges him even when he's visiting the capital of a democracy.

Someone circulated a report that the State Department protocol section had drawn up elaborate rules on behavior in the presence of royalty—bowing from the waist, backing out of the room, and all that sort of thing. The protocol section has been denying it ever since, and is pretty sore about it.

At the White House, people will be expected to behave in the presence of the king and queen just about as they would in the presence of the President and his wife. The British embassy is authority for the statement that it's okay to shake hands with royalty instead of bowing and curtsying.

For weeks the special waiting room into which the king and queen will pass when their train reaches Union Station here has been undergoing facelift. The arrival of President Samoz of Nicaragua gave the Army and Navy a fine chance to dress-rehearse their parade of greeting—an affair so showy that some senators and congressmen are still muttering about it.

Washington Daybook By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — There was a gentleman farmer of certain renown living on the banks of the Potomac who worried because his poorer neighbors always had too much tobacco on hand and not enough good food. Their negro hands were often not in the best of health. Records indicate that oftentimes taxes were paid partly in money and partly in tobacco, for other medium.

The gentleman farmer, who tended to his own place carefully, and had definite success growing a variety of crops and only a lesser portion of tobacco, called a meeting of his better-fixed neighbor farmers. They all recognized the problem of one-crop farms and were glad of a leader to change the practice of farmers in that neighborhood.

The gentleman farmer was George Washington and he started Fairfax County, just outside of Washington, on a crop-rotation system that has existed to this day. In all Fairfax there is not a commercial patch of tobacco. Negroes have a few plants in the back yard to twist into "terbacker" for their own use.

Not Enough Washington
Judge R. Walton Moore, counselor of the state department, now a senator from Fairfax County, has historical records of this little story of how an early day statesman set out to solve the principal problem of the South—the single-crop farm. Each year millions of dollars of food crops are shipped into the South. Department of Agriculture survey indicate that the majority of small-farm families live on a diet almost devoid of vegetables.

The trouble, it would seem, is that there were not enough George Washingtons back in 1770.

And now that we have finished with George we will get back to Washington. There is a certain word often used in these parts that symbolizes much of the trouble arising between business and the Government over the matter of tax revision. It is the longish word "appeasement" that was important from Europe, where it came into disrepute at Munich.

Early this year there was much evidence of shift in administration sentiment. Harry Hopkins was going to the Department of Commerce to work at restoring business confidence.

He said that he considered that his major job.

And somebody started calling it "business appeasement." You could feel a chill in the Washington air almost at once. Appeasement, as it came from Munich meant surrender.

That Nasty Word
President Roosevelt suggested that reporters hunt up a new word to cover the situation.

It has become evident that the hunt for a new word was not intended as a joke. The President refused to be put in the position of the "retreat from Munich." He has said repeatedly since, for emphasis, that the administration was not retreating. The Democratic party wins, said he, when it stands for liberal principles, losses when it slips away.

The chill between Government and business continues. The United States Chamber of Commerce was belligerent in its meeting here. Such is the change of atmosphere that Hopkins, who hoped to be the business peace-maker
